About NDS

NDS is Australia's peak body for non-government disability service organisations, representing the full spectrum of disability service providers across Australia. We are Australia's biggest and most diverse network of disability service providers.

NDS promotes the full social and economic participation of people with disability by supporting high-quality, innovative and sustainable disability services. Our valued Members range in size from small support groups to large multi-service organisations who collectively, operate several thousand services for Australians with all types of disability.

NDS has offices in every state and territory. We understand and are here for the disability sector at a local and national level. NDS offers members the chance to bring about change and explore ways to improve the sector. We believe that we are stronger together; that when all of us speak with one voice we create a message certain to be heard by governments.

And we believe that learning and sharing information with each other is equally as important. NDS members enjoy regular opportunities to pool resources, exchange ideas, and talk, learn, teach, network and listen. The collective experience of our members has been NDS's heart and soul for more than 75 years, filling and shaping the body of knowledge that the sector as a whole now relies on.

We also work hard to keep our members informed about day-to-day issues, so they can anticipate and rectify problems when they arise. Along with access to our ever-expanding range of professional and business development tools, members receive regular updates about policies, programs and funding contracts, as well as service delivery and management issues.

Bottom line: NDS helps disability service providers to develop capability, be informed, voice their needs and collaborate to build high-quality and sustainable disability services for people with disability.

Governance

NDS has a number of forums for NDS Members to become involved and provide input on national issues and to respond to the concerns and interests of members in each State or Territory.

NDS Board

NDS is governed by a national board which includes the elected chair from each state and territory, as well as representatives elected directly by members. Elections are held annually in October/November. NDS Organisational and Life Members have the right to nominate a candidate, be a candidate and vote in NDS Board elections.

State and Territory Divisional Committees

Each State and Territory has its own Divisional Committee, consisting of representatives elected by NDS members in that state or territory. Elections are held annually in July. NDS Organisational and Life Members have the right to nominate a candidate, be a candidate, and vote in elections for State Committees in the state/territory in which their head office is located. Multi-state voting rights may be available to members operating and having a material presence in more than one state or territory (note: an approval process for multi-state voting rights applies).

Annual General Meeting

NDS facilitates an Annual General Meeting in November each year. NDS Organisational and Life Members have the right to participate and vote in NDS's Annual General Meeting.

Policies, reports and strategic directions

NDS's Strategic Plan, Constitution, By-Laws, Disability Action Plan and Annual Reports can be downloaded from the NDS website. nlds.org.au/about/our-policies-and-strategic-direction

Statement of Principles

National Disability Services (NDS) is committed to assisting its members to provide high quality services and enhance the life opportunities and choices available to Australians with disabilities. This Statement of Principles outlines features of a quality service system that people with disability, their families and carers have a right to expect.

Member Benefits

Effective and ‘smart’ advocacy, drawing on good practice and strong evidence to inform our positions

Members inform our work every step of the way.

NDS has maintained strong relationships with governments, their departments and the sector for many years. We work hard to maintain these relationships and develop new ways to expand our policy influence. NDS is working harder than ever in our key role of advocating on your behalf. Much of our advocacy takes place ‘below the line’, where influence happens quietly but assertively. Our strength in advocacy comes from the collective power of more than 1,000 members and other providers, NDS has a strong voice at the policy table.

The policy positions NDS advocates to governments are based on thorough consultation with members and supported by research and evidence. Through NDS, members have frequent opportunities to contribute to policy development. To view submissions made by NDS, visit nds.org.au/policy-library

NDS also advocates strongly on behalf of member organisations that provide employment services for people with disability. This advocacy includes direct interaction with parliamentarians, their advisers and senior DSS staff as well as cooperative relationships with other provider peak bodies.

“Thanks so much NDS, you are always advocating for the disability sector and are respected by Government.”

National Communities of Practice

NDS’s National Communities of Practice support NDS’s advocacy as well as fostering collaboration and networking with other members who have shared interests. There are eight National Communities of Practice:

- Children, Young People and their Families
- Disability Employment Services
- Employment Supports (Social Enterprise)
- Housing and Support
- NDIS Intermediaries
- Quality & Safeguarding
- Remote and Very Remote
- Workforce

All NDS members are welcome to subscribe to and attend communities of practice. To indicate your preferences, simply follow the steps on your ‘manage subscriptions’ page under ‘Account and Membership’. Once you are subscribed, you will receive CoPs meeting invites and information from your CoP lead straight to your inbox.

Timely insights and analysis to inform your decision making

Access to a dedicated member-only web portal
